Probably no barrister ever deserved success more than Mr Hayllar, for the painstaking and conscientious manner in which threw himself into his work could not fail to have its legitimate effect. And this careful and patient mastering of any caseconfided to him was not in the least interfered with as prosperity flowed in. .. Not that the learned Q.U. was lacking in brilliance, but he studiously subjected his showy qualities to that lucidity of statement which he was wont to show the mastery he further desired that you assure him that of tial deputation. The following is the had himself got over the facts before him. For the last ten or twelve years Mr Hayllar has been engaged in all the leading cases which have occupied the time and attention of the Supreme Court and the public in Hongkong; and his ability has been the means of extending his reputation to other ports, where the Chinese authorities-prominently those of Fokien-have substantially recognised his services. His conduct of the Wu-shih-shan case at Foochow, and that of the trial of Regina v. Page at Canton may be referred to as proofs of his great industry and the respect in which he was held alike by the Chinese and other authorities. Mr Hayllar has acted on three occasions as Attorney General here, and for a short time also subsequently sat as an unofficial member of the Legislative Council; Police Commission, and of the C. D. O. Commission appointed by Governor Hennessy. Of late he has not taken so active a part in public movements, although has done much for the welfare of the Colony; and much of the legislation of past few years owes not a little to painstaking labour while Acting Attorney General. His absence will be much felt. as his advice and assistance, apart from the strict duties of his profession, were always as readily given as they were highly requested that they may be published appreciated. Mr Hayllar carries with him community, and there can be no doubt that not human. Poverty is fated; riches are his departure leaves a void that will not readily be filled.

EMIGRATION TO PERU. The following curious mixture of trut and error, fatalism and contentment culminating in advice to stay at home, is translated from the 華字日報 (Chinese

We recently observed in the foreign

Peru, where he had been an exe-witness of the sufferings and cruel treatment of the Chinese labourers. The condition of things while he was a prominent member of the being utterly revolting to his mind he prepared a statement of them and requested that they might be published in the papers. with the desire that the Chinese might know the actual facts of the hardships endured, the ill-treatment suffered, and the bonds from which their countrymen had no means of escape. It appears to us. when those who have gone to Peru and are now labouring there detailed the circumstances of their harsh treatment, and dissuaded others from proceeding thence, that onlookers might have thought that their words were prompted by a desire to prevent reply :emigration. But if, now that a foreigner has seen matters with his own eyes and abroad, so that Chinese may be plainly told not to emigrate, they still do emigrate, then the sincere good wishes of all classes of the they must regard themselves as something ordained of heaven. Still men, when the see (merchants) who at home live sumptuously, who are carried in chairs when they go abroad, and whose very underlings display themselves in silks and sating think Booth were made in touching terms on that in foreign countries riches are, as i were, to be had for the taking. But they not know that a merchant's workmen are just as far removed as is the heaven from where Mr Booth officiated as chaplain to the earth; that work under a foreigner and a Chinaman : that to serve a foreign master who treats Chinese well and one who malpulpit and reading desk and the seats treats them; that a service in which liberty within the communion rail were hung with of the person is still one's own, in which front of the North Barracks on Saturday, the same symbol of sorrow. The com- in which one's liberty has been sold, in munion table was also covered with black which one is held fast in bonds with no freedom of action are all things as different as different can be. The ignorant desk and round the walls were wrenths and and deluded, without having examined Rev. J. B. Ost conducted the services, and foreign land one can become rich at once !" How can they talk of it as being took for his text-I. Corinthians, xv., 58 and so easy! There is no word of the sufferings 57, "The sting of death is sin; and the endured in foreign countries. Why should the mention of them be so entirely avoided? strength of sin is the law. But thanks be Even if one goes abroad to trade carrying a to God which giveth us the victory, through large capital with him, and fortune is not the Governor to his carriage, and driven our Lord Jesus Christ." At the conclusion favourable, he cannot make money. How off to Government Home much less can he who wants to go abroad of his sermon the preacher alluded to the as a labourer and desires from a state of death of Mr Booth. He spoke of his many poverty all of a sudden to become rich? through the town in company with the Look at those who have emigrated as la- Governor. On the 11th the Princes took bourers, how many have returned with part in a sheeting excursion, when two wild WILLARD'S Wanderers gave their farewell pathy with those in distress, to whom large fortunes? Myriads go and after ten pigs were killed one by Lord C. Scott. or twenty years one or two return and set and the other by Captain Durrant.

their backs had to endure the lash, as if they were brute beasts? (Not they) and so men are led to believe that the best thing for one who wants to become rich is to go abroad. Little do they know that the power (to become rich) is an unseen one that rests with heaven. He who is fated to become rich will sure to have some one to-give him help (when wanted), and though he remains and carries on business in his nutivo villago will make profits manifold. He who is ordained to be poor, after much toil and moil, will be left deatitute, with his capital gone and with no money even to pay for his (ordinary) expenses. This is what is called Fate, Destiny, and is not the effect of more fortuitousness. The probabilities, too, are that the greater the wealth, the larger the losses, and by hoarding your riches too late, men have learned to plunder them. All that man wants is, food and clothes to keep him from hunger and cold. Be the ment one of herbs or a sumptuous banquet, be the apparel of plain cloth or fine silks, it is all the same, and so "the humble evening fare can be regarded with the same satisfaction as a banquet of viands, and walking leisurely on foot with as much contentment as riding in a carriage," Why must men go abroad to open up barren lands for foreigners, allowing the body inherited from their parents to be treated as a beast of burden ! For look at what an Englishman has seen with his own eyes. Labourers receive 1 lb. of rice a day. Before it is almost daylight they go forth to the fields, and do not return till after sunset, being allowed only half an hour during the day to cook and eat | lb. of rice. If men were as industrious and thrifty as this in China, small savings would soon largely increase. If we observe those who of years they have gone, enquire into the amount of money they bring home, examine their daily industry and frugality. and base a general calculation on these, we will find that, granted we were to act in the same way as they do, our savings would be larger than theirs. Mon may say ! they have to have a man with whip in hand behin ! them before they are so industrious, have to have a strict watch kept over them before they are so thrifty, " and still willingly quit the land of their birth to receive the lash. This is why we ventured to say that such cannot be human. Further, too, when the maltreatment of overseers is so cruel, when the hatrod of the natives, on account of being deprived of their labour, is over manifesting itself in butcherings and slaughterings, still men are seen going to this country as if it were a land of peace | Truly this is a willing ensuaring and entrapping of oneself, a falling into the pitfall instead of avoiding it. When we say they are not human, our words cannot be regarded as wrong. The inhumanity of those kidnappers, who cause the emigration, looking on human beings as merchandise, will still less stand dispussion.

THE PRINCES AT SINGAPORE. The landing of the Princes at Singapore was conducted in a quiet and unestentatious mauner, and many spectators were disappointed of getting a look at the grandsons of the Queen. While the crowd was waiting to hear the salute aunouncing their departure from the Bacchante, the Princes came ashore in a gig, and were met by His Excellency the Governor, who, accompanied by Captain Tunnard, A.D.C., and Mr George Browne, Private Secretary, 'arrived at Johnston's Pier at 20 minutes past 4, and the Princes were at once escort. ed up the pier, which was floored with red cloth, to the outer shed, where they were waited upon with an address by an influen-

TO THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES PRINCE ALBERT VICTOR AND PRINCE GEORGE OF WALES.

We have the honor, on behalf of the nhabitants of this Colony, to offer a hearty welcome to your Royal Highnesses on your arrival at Singapore, a town founded nearly two thirds of a century since by a prescient and patriotic statesmen,

Thrown open to all as a free port, the advantages offered to Commerce soon attracted attention from all parts of the world, and Singapore rapidly rose from a fishing village to become a centre of trade, in which, under a mild form of Government, equal justice and complete liberty were enjoyed alike by all classes. The benefits thus conferred by a wise and paternal administration have been fully appreciated by the various races composing the population, and we may claim that the papers that an Englishman had gone to inhabitants of this Colony are second to none in loyalty and devotion to Her Majesty the Queen and Empress. We rejoice at the opportunity of thus expressing ourselves to the Sons of their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, who have so endeared themselves to the British Nation, and we beg that your Royal Highnesses will convey to Her Majesty the assurance of our deep respect and attachment and our earnest recognition of the great benefits all have derived Gentlemen.—I thank you for the address of welcome to ry brother and myself, as sons of the Prince and Princess of Wales which you have just read on our landing in this City and Colony. Of the importance of Singapore, as a centre of commerce and civilization, we had often heard; we are now glad to be amongst you, and to judge for ourselves. Last year, when at the Cape of Good Hope, we had the pleasure of receiving from the members of the Malay Community in that portion of the Queen's Empire, tokens of their loyalty and devotion towards the Throne and Person of Her Majesty. We rejoice to learn to day that similar sentiments prevail among all classes and. races in this beautiful Malay Peningula. Your assurance of such we shall at once convey to Her Majesty the Queen and

CORRESPONDENCE.

WILLARD'S WANDERERS. To the Editor of the "CRINA MAIL."

Jan. 23rd. Siz - Willard's Wanderers gave their farewell performance on Saturday night. and after a personal canvas by the members of the company they secured a well-filled house. An elaborate and very extensive programme was advertised during the week. and amongst other announcements made was one-to the effect that Soldiers and Sailors in uniform would be admitted to the pit at half-price. A good number of Blue Jackets obtained leave from their Commanding Officers on this intimation and came ashore with their half-dollars to be present at the entertainment, and passes were freely granted to men in the garrison for the same purpose; but what was their surprise and indignation on being told at the door of the Theatre that they could not be admitted unless by payment of $1. Few men serving in the ranks can afford that price for entertainments equal to those of the Wanderers, which are nothing better after all than Music Hall entertumments such as are given at home, and it is with-a considerable stretch that even half-a-dollar can be spared from limited resources. Mr Willard made his announcement to admit soldiers and sailors at a reduced rate merely, so far as I can imagine, to curry favor with the public by a make-believe liberality and generosity of which he was not possessed, and which was nothing more nor less than a --- well. I won't say it, for you would only strike it out. This is not the first time that the same thing has been done by the enterprising management When the "Forty Thieves" was advertised the same terms were also held out to the Services, and a friend of mine, a Blue Jacket when saked by Willard's roprosentative at the door to pay full price. naively remarked that if the other thirtynine inside were like him he did not care to see them.

Chun Achim, Chun Akwa, William Cottrell (American), and Wong Ahok, were charged, the first and second with being in unlawful possession of a quantity of rope, and the third and fourth with having stolen

A police boat saw the first and second dofendants land at the Patent Slip at Lap-sap- Court Wan on the 21st instant. The second defendant landed and was followed by some of the police, but noticing this he turned back and made for his boat and threw something overboard. The boat was seized and a quantity of rope and some gratings found From information received the police went on board the Li-tar and appreunded the third and fourth defendants. Ching Ku Shing, partner in the Shund Wo Un Hong in Wing Lok Street said that he, along with Mr Kwok Yin Kai, was proprictor of the Li-tai, and that the third deendant was employed by them as a head watchman on board. Third defendant had no authority to sell any of the belongings of the vessel. Witness identified the rope and gratings as belonging to the ship. fourth defendant was also a watchman.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION OF A JACKET. Li Aho, marine hawker, was charged with being in unlawful possession of a jacket. Yesterday the defendant presented the jacket for pawn to the Tai Chang pawn shop, at the corner of Caine Road. A constable, who was in the shop at the time heard the prisoner say the jacket belonged to his brother. The constable requested him to take him to the brother, but the defendant then said he had bought it from a man he could not find. The jacket was proved to belong to the master of the Kwong Li Un Hong and was missed, along with a pair of silk trousers, on the 20th inst. . Defendant admitted two previous convictions and was then fined £10, or three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

A NOVEL USE OF A QUEUE.

Ip Atai was charged with snatching a hat from Pang You. Pang You was ongaged listening to a story-teller in the Recreation Ground on Saturday, when he felt some one snatch his bat. On getting up to give chase, he found his queue was tied to his neighbour's, but he observed defendant running off with his hat. He broke his neighbours queue string and gave chase. The defendant ran to the Praya, where he threw the hat into the harbour, and there eing no boat handy the hat was lost. Defendant offered at the time to repay! complainant, but this was refused, and he was apprehended and convicted of the crime. Six months' imprisonment with hard labour was imposed.

Chung Achi was found guilty of stealing a piece of wood belonging to Chung Fu. The defendant admitted two previous convictions and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Li Ah On, a tailor, picked from the pocket of Hni Akin, a shochorn last night. The complainant was standing looking in at a shop window in Queen's Road yesterday. when a constable saw the defendant abstract the shochorn from complainant's pocket. The defendant said he picked the shoehorn up off the ground, thinking it belonged to shop near by, which had been burnt down and thought they did not want it Defendant had been imprisoned before for larceny. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

A " YANKER'S" SPREE Geo. Brown, chief mate of the American parque Pearl, was charged with discharging a loaded revolver in a licensed brothel, 4, Graham Street, on the 22nd inst: The defendant had been in the house, and fired two shots, which considerably alarmed the inmates. The revolver was only loaded with powder. A native constable heard the reports and went and enquired as to the cause. He did not venture into the house. but went and reported the matter at the Station. Constable McKay went to the house and found the defendant undressed and under the influence of liquor. He procured the revolver and found only one of the chambers loaded. He examined the room, but found no trace of bullet marks on any part of the room.

Defendant, who admitted being drunk said he was not aware of having the weapon in his possession at the time. Fined ten dollars, or in default three weeks' imprisonment.

The other two had been clearly proved to have taken an active part in the the course of justice, but the result matter. There was quite enough to prove Lam Ashing, a coolie in the Shun Wo that they formed part of the gang that broke into the house. The first prisoner Judge might possibly be affected by your third defendant to sell the material, as he by his actions and the possession of firearms, and other information in the possession of the police, pointed towards his allow these remarks to have any affect on having some complicity in the murder of the policeman; but it was not quite sufficient to convict him of it. His Lordship right and wise course, and I am sure you said they must expect to receive a very severe punishment for this offence, and he would sentence each of them to 12 years penal servitude.

> Lo Akai and Ip Ashan, who were convicted of larceny of a piece of wood at Mong Kok Tsui, were sentenced the first, on account of it being his first offence, to four calendar months, with hard labour; and the second, having been frequently imprisoned before, to five years' penal servitude.

CUITING AND WOUNDING. Wong Aloi, convicted of wounding and cutting one Wong Asui, on the 9th of January was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labour. His Lordship remarked that though the prisoner might not have intended to do much harm, he had used a very dangerous weapon, which might have done considerable damage, and taking into consideration that the wounds were very slight he passed this lenient sentence upon him.

Wong Yuk, Loung Along, Wong Ayu Wong Alioi, Wong Han Fong and Chini Ayn, were convicted on two charges, the first-four, on one count in each charge of being unlawfully in the possession of stolen goods; and the last two, on tw counts in each charge, with piratically attacking certain junks, and with being, along with thoothers, in unlawful possession of stolen goods.

All the prisoners again pleaded their in ocence; and requested release to return home and support poverty-stricken parents. His Lordship said in sentencing the prisoners that they had all been found guilty in various degrees of piracy and assault; and that it was necessary to put down piracy, as being the curse of these seas. If they had been honest traders, as they held themselves out to be, they could easily have satisfied the Court and jury of their innocence. He then sentenced Wong Afuk Leung Afong, Wong Ayui, and Wong Ahoi to four years' penal servitude on one count in each charge, the sentence to be cumula tive; and Loung Afong, and Chan Ayu on each charge to 6 years' penal servitude for piratically attacking, and 4 years for being in unlawful possession, those two terms to be concurrent, the sentences on both charges to be cumulative-this condemns the first four to 8 years' imprisonment, and the other two to 12 years' im-

the colony of the services of the Attorney-General, Mr George Phillippo, who unable to endure the turbulence of his client, applied to the Colonial Office for a post in an other colony, and readily obtained it. Having thus disposed of the Attorney-General, Governor Hennessy directed his attention to the acting Chief Justice, accusing his Lordship of conniving at the escape of a criminal who had run away to Macao. Then there was another appeal for protection to her Majesty's Secretary, of State for the Colonies. Finding that the excitement of these domestic jars began to pall, Governor Popo Honnessy next " went in" for an international row with the Governor of the neighbouring Portuguese settlement of Macao, where the Government was then engaged in the delicate task of repelling the pretonsions of the mandarins to the severeignty of Portuguese concessions of 1586. At this ill-chosen moment Governor Hennessy caused a letter to be addressed to a firm of solicitors in Hongkong connected with Macao, officially questioning the title of the Crown of Portugal to Mucao, and calling attention to the fact that the Chinese Government had by no means waived its rights. This declaration on the part of a representative of a friendly Power evoked a spirited protest from the disclaimer had been tendered by the For-

Portuguese Governor. This protest was issued in the form of a royal declaration in the name of the King of Portugal, and the ferment it created did not subside until a eign Office to the Portuguese Government at Lisbon. Governor Hennessy's next rumpus was with the British Consul at Canton whom he thought proper to ignore and slight when making an official visit to that city; and once more the Foreign Office had to appeal to the Colonial Office to keep their man in order. Again, later on, from Japan we find the British Minister, Sir Harry Parkes, and the British Admiral, sending home protests against the pretentious assumptions of Governor Hennessy; and again we find that otheor seriously adminished. Returned to his own colony, Governor Pope Hennessy now engaged in a violent broil with the General commanding the troops, in consequence of the General's inability to confirm his (the Governor's) nomination of a certain young officer to the post of side-de-camp to His Excellency. This unfortunate collision introduced a good deal of friction into the relations between the Civil Government and the military authorities, and they still remain on bad terms. In his relations with the unofficial element in the Colonial Legislative Chamber, Gover- (Taken at Messrs Falconer & Co.'s Premises. nor Pope Hennessy has been equally unhappy; the two leading members, Messrs Lowcock and Keswick, having had on more than one occasion to complain formally of his proceedings: But, while wrangling with other officials and with the members of his Council, Governor Hennessy has always found time to keep his own offices in a ferment; and during his administration most of the heads of departments, including the principal medical officer, the head of the Educational Department, the harbour-master, and the clerk of councils, have been compelled to appeal to the Secretary of State against the r chief. But even that is not The Governor has been able to devote much time to quarrelling with private institutions and with the English and other European communities generally. A little while since he thought fit to make a violent personal attack on the members of the City Hall Committee because that body declined to alter the regulations in conformity with his wishes, and withdrew the Gevernment support from that institution.

As far back as October, 1878, the European community of Hongkong, having con vened a public meeting, memorialized Si Michael Hicks-Beach to inquire into their wrongs, forwarding their memorial through the Governor as laid down in official intructions. This memorial his Excellency kep back for about four months, and it onl reached the Colonial Office after publi feeling had somewhat subsided owing to his assumption of a more pacific demeanour. . . On this memorable occasion it was observed that the European and Chinese communities who had always been in harmony under former Governors, were now, for the first time in the history of the colony, arrayed against each other; in the same way that the two races had been divided two years previously at Barbadoes under the management of the same admi Governor Hennessy's squabbles with for eign Consuls, with shipowners, emigration agents, and private individuals would alone fill a volume. In one case he went the length of personal assault.

We regret to learn of the death this morning (6th) of Mr Henry Hewetson, the Secretary to the Municipal Commissioners. Mr Henry Hewetson was one of our oldest residents, and highly respected by all

The American ship Valiant, Capt. Daly, from Hongkong for Unleutta, while passing through the Straits, on the 30th ultimo, sighted a number of persons clinging to the bottom of a large boat, and in imminent peril. Captain Daly hove to and rescued them, taking them on board his ship. They were nife in number. three men, one woman, one young girl, and four children. They stated that they had sailed in their boat from Batu Pahat, in Johore territory, for Singapore with fruit for the market, but the boat had been cap ized in a squall, the whole of them fortunately being able to get upon the bottom of the boat, where they had been for four hours when rescued by Captain Daly, Next day, the 31st, whon off the Formesa light-ship, the Valiant spoke the German ship Urania, Captain fruchnicht, from Cardiff for Singapore, and requested him to bring the unfortunate shipwrocked persons to this port, which was readily complied with, and they landed here on the afternoon of New Year's Day. The Master Attendant is interesting himself on behalf of these people, who describe themselves as Javanese, but long resident in these parts; and it is probable they will be taken under the protection of H. H. the Maharajah of Johore, from whose territory they sailed. They are quite destitute. having lost everything except what little clothes they had on when picked up.

His Royal Highness Prince Kron Mun Devawongsa Taraprakan, brother of His Majesty the King of Siam, arrived here on Thursday last on a complimentary mission on the part of the King to their Royal Highnesses Prince Albert Victor and Prince George of Wales, and paid an official visit to His Excellency the Governor yesterday afternoon (3rd). His Royal Highness, accompanied by his cousin His Royal Highness Chao Sri and suite, landed from the Royal Yacht Vesatri at Johnston's Pior. shortly before half past four o'clock, and was received with a guard of honour composed of a hundred men of "The Buffs" with the Queen's colours, under the command of Captain Backhouse. salute of 21 guns was also fired at the lame time by the Royal Artillery from the battery at Fort Canning. His Royal Highness was escorted to Government House by Captain Tunnard, A.D.C., in His Excellency's state carriage, and was received on arrival by the Governor in full uniform, accompanied by the Hon. C. Clementi Smith, C.M.G., Colonial Secretary, and attended by Mr George Browns, Private Secretary, and Major Grey, Hon'y A.D.C. After passing some time at Government House, and presenting an autograph letterfrom His King to His Excellency, His Royal Highness and suite returned to Singapore and re-embarked on board the
